INDEX TO VOLUME XXX OF THE JOHNS HOPKINS HOSPITAL BULLETIN.

Abscess, postscarlatinal cervical, hæmorrhage into a. Ligation of the common carotid. Recovery, 240.

Agglutination, phagocytosis and, in the serum in acute lobar pneumonia; the specificity of these reactions and the regularity of their occurrence, 167.

Anæsthesia and asepsis, reminiscences of two epochs, 273.

Antituberculosis measures, 49.

Asepsis, anæsthesia and, reminiscences of two epochs, 273.

B. influenzæ, the effect of different bloods on the growth of, 129.

Bacteria introduced into the upper air passages, the fate of, 317.

Barker, L. F., Osler as chief of the medical clinic, 189.

Barker, L. F. and Carter, D. W., Jr., Chronic pemphigus vegetans of several years' duration, 302.

Benzine poisoning, with report of a chronic case, 309.

Blogg, M. W., Bibliography of Howard A. Kelly, 293.

Blogg, M. W., Bibliography of Sir William Osler, 219.

Blood sugar, studies on. IV. Effects upon the blood sugar of the repeated ingestion of glucose, 306.

Bloomfield, A. L., The fate of bacteria introduced into the upper air passages, 317.

Bloomfield, A. L., The relation of spontaneous nephritis of rabbits to experimental lesions, 121.

Bloomfield, A. L. and Harrop, G. A., Jr., Clinical observations on epidemic influenza, 1.

Bloomfield, A. L. and Mateer, J. G., Changes in skin sensitiveness to tuberculin during epidemic influenza, 238.

Bloomfield, A. L. and Waters, C. A., The correlation of X-ray findings and physical signs in the chest in uncomplicated epidemic influenza, 252.

Boggs, T. R., Osler as a bibliophile, 216.

Books received, 139; 183; 256; 285; 315; 340.

Bridgman, E. W., Notes on the group of symptoms designated as effort syndrome, 279.

Brown, T. R., Osler and the student, 200.

Brush, E. N., Osler's influence on other medical schools in Baltimore. His relation to the medical profession, 208.

Brush, E. N., Osler's literary style, 217.

Carter, D. W., Jr. and Barker, L. F., Chronic pemphigus vegetans of several years' duration, 302.

Carter, E. P., Richter, C. P. and Greene, C. H., A graphic application of the principle of the equilateral triangle for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart in the human electrocardiogram, 162.

Cerebral ventricles, fluoroscopy of the, 29.

Cerebrospinal fluids of cats, analysis of, with meningeal infections, 242.

Chatard, J. A., Osler and the Book and Journal Club, 211.

Chorea, an electromyographic study of, 35.

Clark, Admont H., The effect of diet on the healing of wounds, 117.

Clark, Admont Halsey, In memoriam, 272.

Clough, P. W., Phagocytosis and agglutination in the serum in acute lobar pneumonia; the specificity of these reactions and the regularity of their occurrence, 167.

Cobb, S., An electromyographic study of chorea, 35.

Colston, J. A. C. and Waters, C. A., The rôle of the X-ray in the diagnosis of long-standing renal tuberculosis, 268.

Councilman, W. T., Some of the early medical work of Sir William Osler, 193.

Cross-striations, the development of, in the heart muscle of the chick embryo, 176.

Crowe, S. J. and Thacker-Neville, W. S., The influenza bacillus in paranasal sinus infections, 322.

Cull, S. T. W., Spina bifida with associated disturbances in a human embryo 17 mm. long, 181.

Cullen, T. S., Dr. Henry M. Hurd, first superintendent of The Johns Hopkins Hospital, 341.

Cullen, T. S., Dr. Howard A. Kelly, Professor of Gynecology in The Johns Hopkins University and Gynecologist-in-Chief to The Johns Hopkins Hospital, 287.

Dandy, W. E., Fluoroscopy of the cerebral ventricles, 29.

Davison, W. C. and Holm, M. L., Meningococcus pneumonia. I. The occurrence of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus introcellularis meningitidis was isolated. From observations at Camp Coetquidon, A. E. F., France, 324.

Davison, W. C., Holm, M. L. and Emmons, R. V. B., Meningococcus pneumonia. II. The epidemiology of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated, 329.

Diet, the effect of, on the healing of wounds, 117.

Digitalis, observations on the clinical pharmacology of, 131.

Douglas, B., The reaction of the leucocytes in epidemic influenza, 338.

Effort syndrome, notes on the group of symptoms designated as, 279.

Electrocardiogram, human, a graphic application of the principle of the equilateral triangle for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart in the human electrocardiagram, 162.

Electromyographic study of chorea, 35.

Emmons, R. V. B., Davison, W. C. and Holm, M. L., Meningococcus pneumonia. II. The epidemiology of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated, 329.

Equilateral triangle, a graphic application of the principle of the, for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart in the human electrocardiogram, 162.

Felton, L. D., Analysis of cerebrospinal fluids of cats with meningeal infections, 242.

Fluoroscopy of the cerebral ventricles, 29.

Fry, Elizabeth—Quaker Reformer, 72.

Futcher, T. B., Osler's influence on the relation of medicine in Canada and the United States, 204.

Gastric mucosa, the occurrence of, in a case of Meckel's diverticulum producing intestinal obstruction, 143.

Goetsch, E., The occurrence of gastric mucosa in a case of Meckel's diverticulum producing intestinal obstruction, 143.

Granules, degeneration, and vacuoles in the fibroblasts of chick embryos cultivated in vitro, 81.

Green, Horace, and his probang, 246.

Greene, C. H., Carter, E. P. and Richter, C. P., A graphic application of the principle of the equilateral triangle for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart in the human electrocardiogram, 162.

Haden, R. L., Benzine poisoning, with report of a chronic case, 309.

Hæmorrhage into a postscarlatinal cervical abscess. Ligation of the common carotid. Recovery, 240.

Hamman, L., Osler and the tuberculosis work of the hospital, 202.

Hamman, L. and Hirschman, I. I., Studies on blood sugar. IV. Effects upon the blood sugar of the repeated ingestion of glucose, 306.

Harrop, G. A., Jr., The behavior of the blood toward oxygen in influenzal infections, 10.

Harrop, G. A., Jr., The production of tetany by the intravenous infusion of sodium bicarbonate. Report of an adult case, 62.

Harrop, B. A., Jr., and Bloomfield, A. L., Clinical observations on epidemic influenza, 1.

Hirschman, I. I. and Hamman, L., Studies on blood sugar. IV. Effect upon the blood sugar of the repeated ingestion of glucose, 306.

Holm, M. L. and Davison, W. C., Meningococcus pneumonia. I. The occurrence of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus introcellularis meningitidis was isolated. From observations at Camp Coetquidon, A. E. F., France, 324.
Holm, M. L., Davison, W. C. and Emmons, R. V. B., Meningococcus pneumonia. II. The epidemiology of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated, 329.
Howard, S. E., Bacteriological findings in epidemic influenza, 13.
Huck, J. G., Changes in the blood immediately following transfusion, 63.
Hurd, H. M., Some early reminiscences of William Osler, 213.
Hurd, Henry M., A sketch of Dr. Lyman Spalding, 125.
Hurd, Henry Mills, first superintendent of The Johns Hopkins Hospital, 341.
Influenza bacillus in paranasal sinus infections, 322.
Influenza cases, fatal, comments on the pathology and bacteriology of, as observed at Camp Devons, Mass., 104.
Influenza, epidemic, bacteriological findings in, 13.
Influenza, epidemic, changes in skin sensitiveness to tuberculin during, 238.
Influenza, epidemic, clinical observations on, 1.
Influenza, epidemic, the reaction of the leucocytes in, 338.
Influenza, uncomplicated epidemic, the correlation of X-ray findings and physical signs in the chest in, 252.
Influenzal infections, the behavior of the blood toward oxygen in, 10.
Inoculation with blood from measles patients, insusceptibility of man to, 257.
Inoculation with blood from measles patients, insusceptibility of monkeys to, 57.
Intestinal obstruction, the occurrence of gastric mucosa in a case of Meckel's diverticulum producing, 143.
Intravenous infusion of sodium bicarbonate, the production of tetany by the, 62.
Jacobs, H. B., Osler as a citizen and his relation to the tuberculosis crusade in Maryland, 205.
Kelly, H. A., Osler as I knew him in Philadelphia and in the Hopkins, 215.
Kelly, Dr. Howard A., Bibliography of, 293.
Kelly, Dr. Howard A., Professor of Gynecology in The Johns Hopkins University and Gynecologist-in-Chief to The Johns Hopkins Hospital, 287.
Knox, J. H. M., Jr., Dr. George Peirce, 254.
Krause, A. K., Antituberculosis measures, 49.
Leucocytes, the reaction of the, in epidemic influenza, 338.
Lewis, M. R., The development of cross-striations in the heart muscle of the chick embryo, 176.
Lewis, W. H., Degeneration granules and vacuoles in the fibroblasts of chick embryos cultivated in vitro, 81.
Lung architecture, stereoroentgenograms of the injected lung as an aid to the study of the, 34.
McCrae, T., Osler and patient, 201.
MacCallum, W. G., In Memoriam—Admont Halsey Clark, 272.
MacCallum, W. G., Osler as a pathologist, 197.
Macht, D. I., A pharmacological appreciation of a Biblical reference to mass poisoning, II Kings, IV, 38-41, 38.
Manus meditationis, 184.
Mass poisoning, a pharmacological appreciation of a Biblical reference to, II Kings, IV, 38-41, 38.
Mateer, J. G. and Bloomfield, A. L., Changes in skin sensitiveness to tuberculin during epidemic influenza, 238.
Measles blood, the reaction of monkeys to the inoculation of, 311.
Measles patients, insusceptibility of man to inoculation with blood from, 257.
Measles, the occurrence of the Pfeiffer bacillus in, 331.
Meckel's diverticulum, the occurrence of gastric mucosa in a case of, producing intestinal obstruction, 143.
Meningeal infections, analysis of cerebrospinal fluids of cats with, 242.
Meningococcus pneumonia. I. The occurrence of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated. From observations at Camp Coetquidon, A. E. F., France, 324.
Meningococcus pneumonia. II. The epidemiology of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated. From observations at Camp Coetquidon, A. E. F., France, 329.
Meyer, A. W. and Wynne, H. M. N., Some aspects of ovarian pregnancy, with report of a case, 92.
Miller, W. S., Granville Sharp Pattison, 98.
Miller, W. S., Horace Green and his probang, 246.
Miller, W. S., Stereoroentgenograms of the injected lung as an aid to the study of the lung architecture, 34.
Nephritis, spontaneous, of rabbits, relation of, to experimental lesions, 121.
Notes and news, 25.
Notes on new books: Carman, R. P. and Miller, A., The roentgen diagnosis of diseases of the alimentary canal, 27;—Sellards, A. W., The principles of acidosis and clinical methods for its study, 136;—Strong, R. P. (chairman), Trench fever: report of Commission Medical Research Committee, American Red Cross, 136;—Stokes, J. H., The third great plague, 136;—Veddar, E. B., Syphilis and public health, 136;—Hartzell, M. B., Diseases of the skin, 136;— Barjon, F., Radio-diagnosis of pleuro-pulmonary affections, 136;—Prince, N. C., Roentgen technic, 136;—MacCurdy, J. T., War neuroses, 136;—Smithies, F., Quarterly Medical Clinics. A series of consecutive clinical demonstrations and lectures, 284;—Wenyon, C. M. and O'Connor, F. W., Human intestinal protozoa in the near East, 284;—Lewis, T., The soldier's heart and the effort syndrome, 284;—Wilson, R. M. and Carroll, J. H., The nervous heart, 314;—Macleod, J. M. H., Burns and their treatment, 314;—Von Hug-Hellmuth, H., A study of the mental life of the child, 314;—Macleod, J. J. R., Physiology and biochemistry in modern medicine, 314.
Noyes, M. C., Osler's influence on the library of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland, 212.
Osler and patient, 201.
Osler and the Book and Journal Club, 211.
Osler and the student, 200.
Osler and the tuberculosis work of the hospital, 202.
Osler as a bibliophile, 216.
Osler as a citizen and his relation to the tuberculosis crusade in Maryland, 205.
Osler as a pathologist, 197.
Osler as chief of the medical clinic, 189.
Osler as I knew him in Philadelphia and in the Hopkins, 215.
Osler's influence in building up the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, 209.
Osler's influence on other medical schools in Baltimore. His relation to the medical profession, 208.
Osler's influence on the library of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland, 212.
Osler's influence on the relation of medicine in Canada and the United States, 204.
Osler's literary style, 217.
Osler, Sir William, bibliography of, 219.
Osler, Sir William, some of the early medical work of, 193.
Osler, the teacher, 198.
Osler, William, some early reminiscences of, 213.
Ovum, single, twins, formation of, 235.
Paranasal sinus infections, the influenza bacillus in, 322.
Pattison, Granville Sharp, 98.

Peirce, Dr. George, 254.
Pemphigus vegetans, chronic, of several years' duration, 302.
Pfeiffer bacillus in measles, the occurrence of the, 331.
Phagocytosis and agglutination in the serum in acute lobar pneumonia; the specificity of these reactions and the regularity of their occurrence, 167.
Pharmacological appreciations of a Biblical reference to mass poisoning, II Kings, IV, 38-41, 38.
Pneumonia, acute lobar, phagocytosis and agglutination in the serum in; the specificity of these reactions and the regularity of their occurrence, 167.
Pneumonia, meningococcus. 1. The occurrence of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated, 324.
Pneumonia, meningococcus. II. The epidemiology of post-influenzal pneumonia in which the diplococcus intracellularis meningitidis was isolated, 329.
Pregnancy, ectopic, 15.
Pregnancy, ovarian, some aspects of, with report of a case, 92.
Proceedings of The Johns Hopkins Hospital Medical Society: Bloomfield, A. L. and Harrop, G. A., Clinical observations on epidemic influenza, 110;—Wolbach, S. B., Comments on the pathology and bacteriology of fatal influenza cases, as observed at Camp Devens, Massachusetts, 110;—Thompson, W. G., A functional re-education clinic: organization and methods, 110;—MacCallum, W. G., Malaria in the Federated Malay States. A correction, 110.
Richter, C. P., Carter, E. P. and Greene, C. H., A graphic application of the principle of the equilateral triangle for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart in the human electrocardiogram, 162.
Rivers, T. M., Hæmorrhage into a postscarlatinal cervical abscess. Ligation of the common carotid. Recovery, 240.
Rivers, T. M., The effect of different bloods on the growth of B. influenzæ, 129.
Sellards, A. W., Insusceptibility of man to inoculation with blood from measles patients, 257.
Sellards, A. W., The reaction of monkeys to the inoculation of measles blood, 311.
Sellards, A. W. and Sturn, E., The occurrence of the Pfeiffer bacillus in measles, 331.
Sellards, A. W., and Wentworth, J. A., Insusceptibility of monkeys to inoculation with blood from measles patients, 57.
Singer, C., The manus meditationis, 184.
Skin sensitiveness, changes in, to tuberculin during epidemic influenza, 238.
Smith, S., Reminiscences of two epochs—anæsthesia and asepsis, 273.
Spalding, Dr. Lyman, a sketch of, 125.
Spina bifida with associated disturbances in a human embryo 17 mm. long, 181.
Stereoroentgenograms of the injected lung as an aid to the study of the lung architecture, 34.
Streeter, C. L., Formation of single-ovum twins, 235.
Sturm, E. and Sellards, A. W., The occurrence of the Pfeiffer bacillus in measles, 331.
Tetany, the production of, by the intravenous infusion of sodium bicarbonate. Report of an adult case, 62.
Thacker-Neville, W. S., and Crowe, S. J., The influenza bacillus in paranasal sinus infections, 322.
Thayer, W. S., Osler, the teacher, 198.
Thomas, H. M., Elizabeth Fry—Quaker Reformer, 72.
Thomas, H. M., Some memories of the development of the medical school and of Osler's advent, 185.
Titles of papers appearing during the year, elsewhere than in the BULLETIN, by present and former members of the hospital and medical school staff, 42.
Transfusion, changes in the blood immediately following, 63.
Tuberculosis, renal, the rôle of the X-ray in the diagnosis of long-standing, 268.
Ventricles, cerebral, fluoroscopy of the, 29.
Waters, C. A., and Bloomfield, A. L., The correlation of X-ray findings and physical signs in the chest in uncomplicated epidemic influenza, 252.
Waters, C. A., and Colston, J. A. C., The rôle of the X-ray in the diagnosis of long-standing renal tuberculosis, 268.
Wedd, A. M., Observations on the clinical pharmacology of digitalis, 131.
Wentworth, J. A., and Sellards, A. W., Insusceptibility of monkeys to inoculation with blood from measles patients, 57.
Wolbach, S. B., Comments on the pathology of fatal influenza cases, as observed at Camp Devens, Mass., 104.
Woods, H., Influence in building up the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, 209.
Wynne, H. M. N., Ectopic pregnancy, 15.
Wynne, H. M. N., and Meyer, A. W., Some aspects of ovarian pregnancy, with report of a case, 92.
X-ray findings and physical signs, the correlation of, in the chest in uncomplicated epidemic influenza, 252.
X-ray, the rôle of the, in the diagnosis of long-standing renal tuberculosis, 268.

ILLUSTRATIONS

Two illustrations in a case of epidemic influenza—one showing inside of mouth of patient, and the other spots found on mucosa of check, 4.
Fluoroscopy of the cerebral ventricles, 31-32.
Stereoroentgenograms of an injected lung, 35.
Electromyograms used in study of chorea, 36.
Citrullus Colocynthis Arn, 39.
Ecballium Elaterium, 39.
Elizabeth Fry, 72.
Degeneration granules and vacuoles in fibroblasts of chick embryos cultivated in vitro, 91.
Gross specimens from a case of ovarian pregnancy, 96.
Granville Sharp Pattison, 98.
Nathaniel Chapman, 98.
Specimens of lungs from cases of influenza, 108.
Specimens of kidneys showing relation of spontaneous nephritis of rabbits to experimental lesions, 124.
Illustrations showing growth of strains of B. influenzæ in human blood meat infusion agar and rabbit blood meat infusion agar, 130.
Electrocardiograms showing the effect of digitalis on the heart waves, 134.
Meckel's diverticulum, 144.
Magnified sections of mucosa in a case of Meckel's diverticulum, 146.
Gland tubules in Meckel's diverticulum, 148.
Umbilical polyp with central fistulous opening, remnant of omphalomesenteric duct, in Meckel's diverticulum, 149.
Omphalomesenteric duct in form of an umbilical fistula in Meckel's diverticulum, 151.
Umbilical polyp connected with Meckel's diverticulum and patent omphelomesenteric duct with polypoid formation at umbilicus, 152.
Drawing illustrating the fundamental principle of the equilateral triangle for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart in the human electrocardiogram, 162.
Drawings and electrocardiograms illustrating the principle of the equilateral triangle for determining the direction of the electrical axis of the heart, 165-166.
Photographs and drawings in a case of development of cross-striations in the heart muscle of the chick embryo, 178.

Spina bifida with associated disturbances in a human embryo, 182.
Manus Meditationis (The Hand of Meditation), 184.
Sir William Osler in 1906. Painted by Sargent, 186.
Sir William Osler—the Saint, by Max Broedel, 192.
Sir William Osler at a patient's bedside, 201.
Sir William Osler. Painted by Seymour Thomas, 206.
Bookplate of the Library of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland, purchased through the William Osler Testimonial Fund for the Advancement of Medicine, 212.
Sir William Osler in 1901, 1902 and 1913, 214.
Dr. William S. Halsted, Sir William Osler and Dr. Howard A. Kelly taken about 1900, 218.
Formation of single ovum twins, 236, 237, 238.
Horace Green, 246.
X-ray photographs of the chest in uncomplicated epidemic influenza, 252.
X-ray photographs of the kidney and ureter in a case of renal tuberculosis, 270.
Dr. Admont Halsey Clark, 272.
Tablet in memory of Dr. Admont H. Clark, 272.
Dr. Stephen Smith, 273.
Dr. Howard A. Kelly, 288, 290.
Pemphigus vegetans, 302, 304.
Plate spreader and throat swab used in cases of meningococcus pneumonia, 331.
Dr. Henry M. Hurd at various ages, 342, 346, 364, 369.

PUBLICATIONS

The following eight monographs:

Free Thrombi and Ball-Thrombi in the Heart. By J. H. Hewitt, M. D. 82 pages. Price, $1.00.

Benzol as a Leucotoxin. By Laurence Selling, M. D. 60 pages. Price, $1.00.

Primary Carcinoma of the Liver. By M. C. Winternitz, M. D. 42 pages. Price 75 cents.

The Statistical Experience Data of The Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md., 1892-1911. By Frederick L. Hoffman, LL.D., F.S.S. 161 pages. Price, $2.00.

The Origin and Development of the Lymphatic System. By Florence R. Sabin. 94 pages. Price, $2.00.

Venous Thrombosis During Myocardial Insufficiency. By Frank J. Sladen, M. D., and Milton C. Winternitz, M. D. Price, 75 cents.

Leukaemia of the Fowl: Spontaneous and Experimental. By Harry C. Schmeisser, M. D. Price, $2.00.

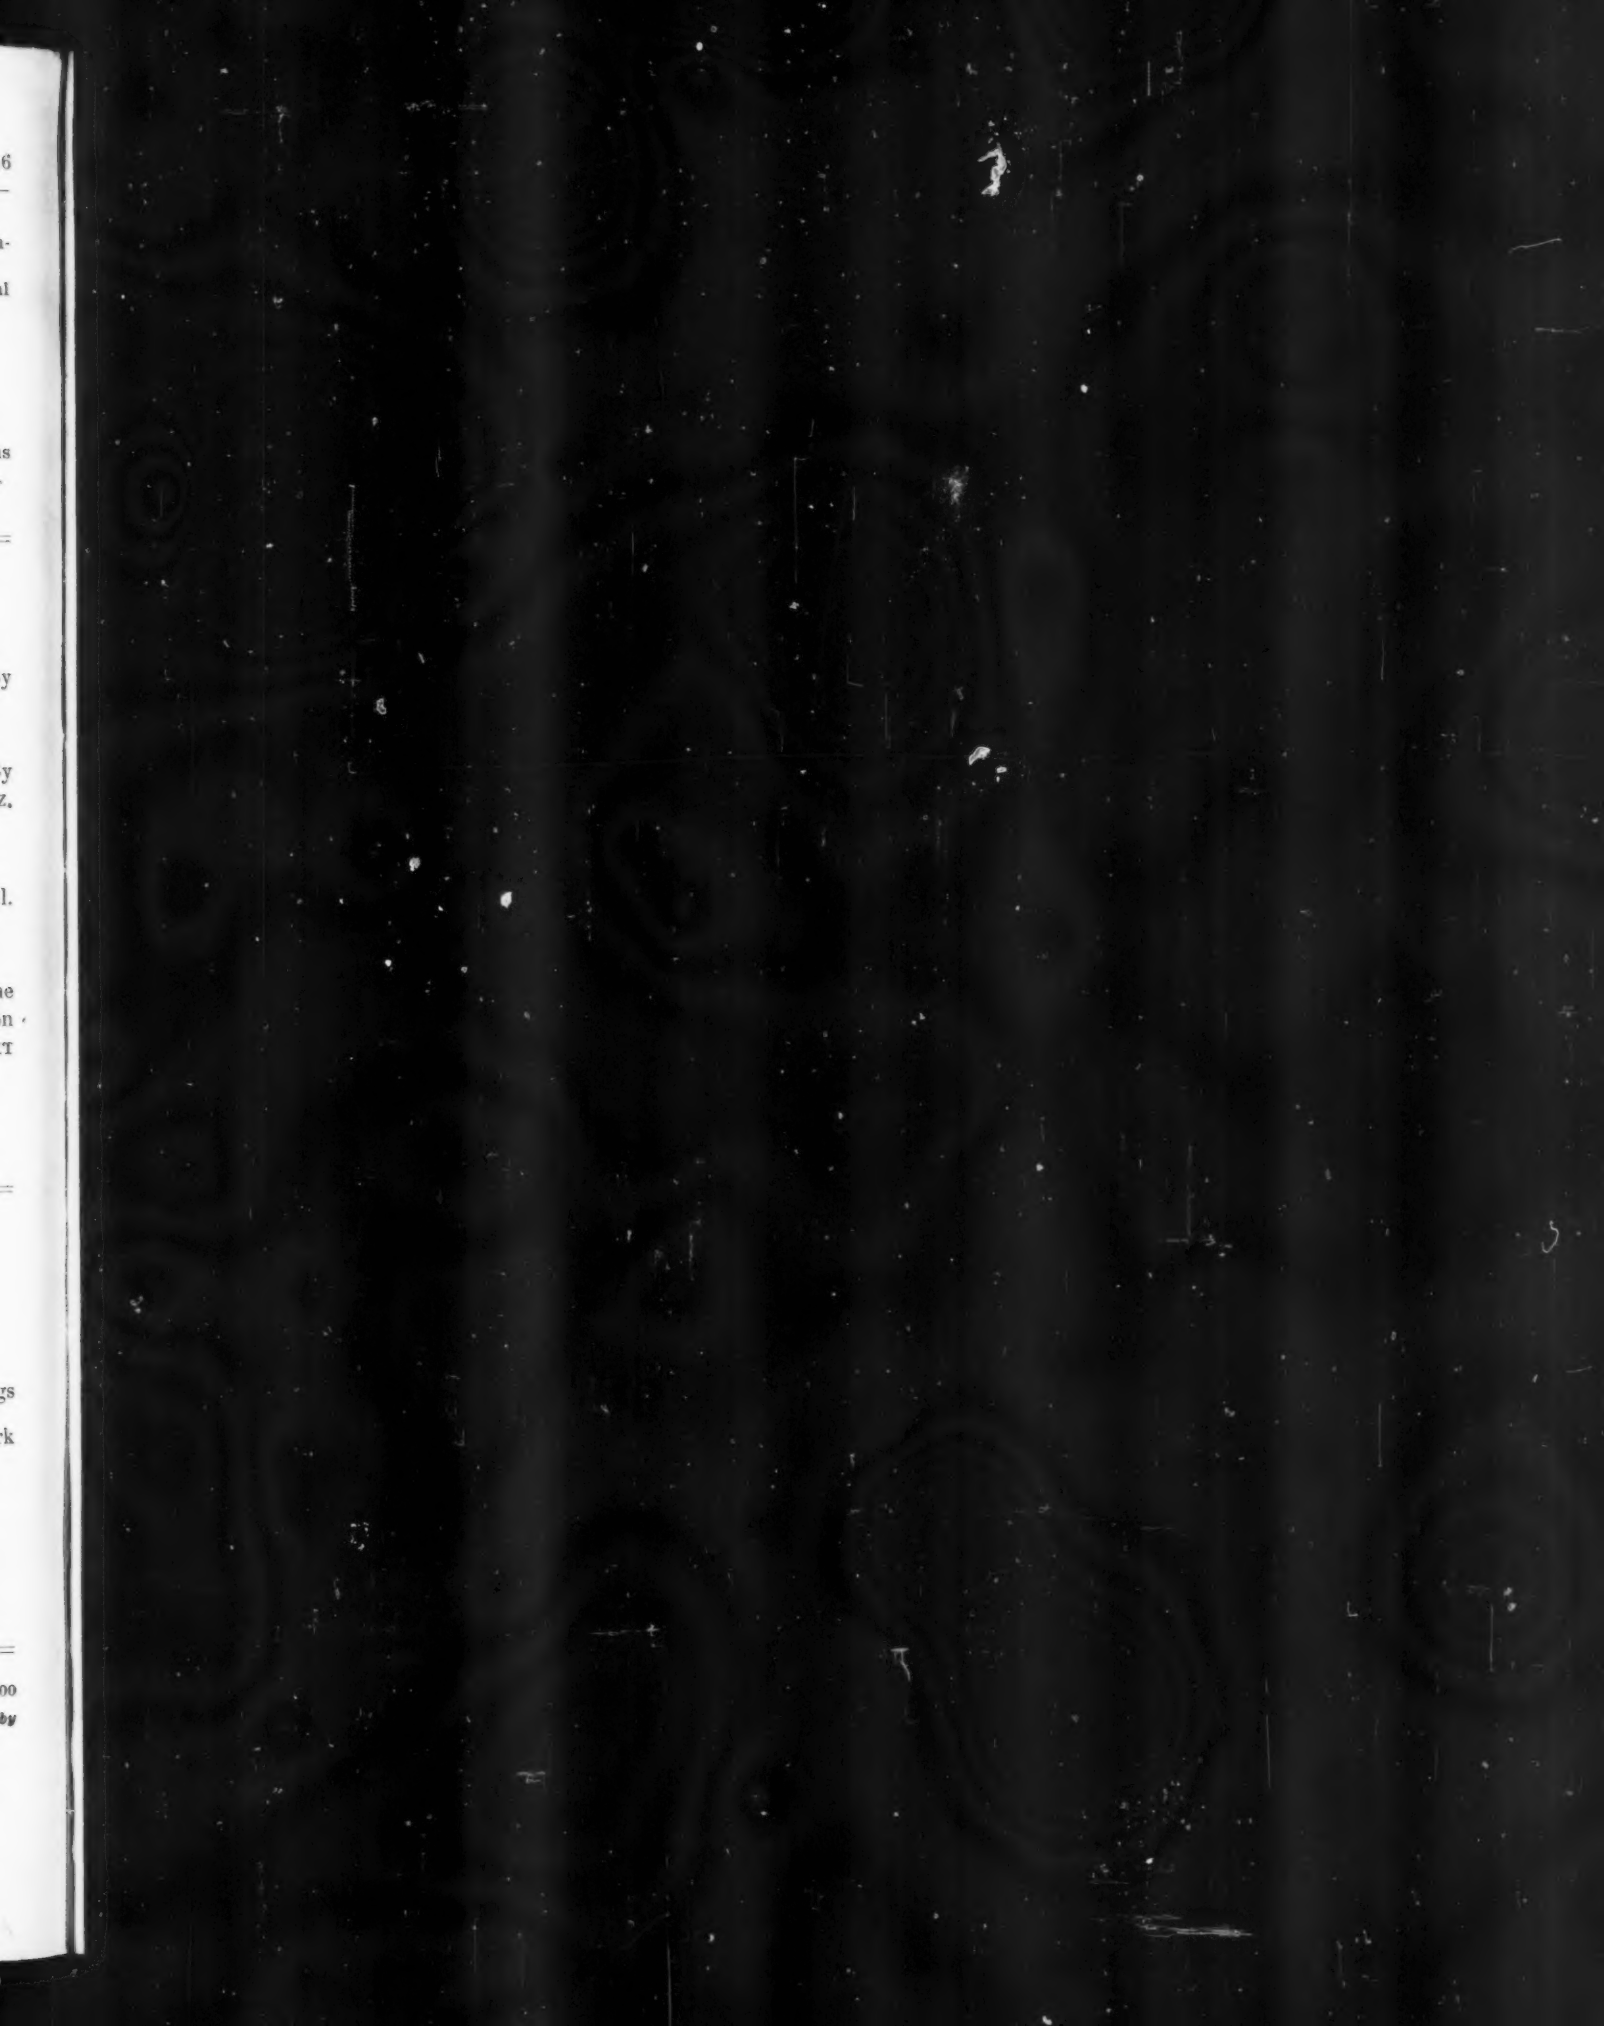
The Structure of the Normal Fibers of Purkinje in the Adult Human Heart and Their Pathological Alteration in Syphilitic Myocarditis. By O. Van Der Stricht and T. Wingate Todd. Price, $2.00.

are now on sale by The Johns Hopkins Press, Baltimore. Other monographs will appear from time to time

JOHNS HOPKINS HOSPITAL BULLETIN.

The Hospital Bulletin contains details of hospital and dispensary practice, abstracts of papers read and other proceedings of the Medical Society of the Hospital, reports of lectures, and other matters of general interest in connection with the work of the Hospital. It is issued monthly. Volume XXX is in progress. The subscription price is $3.00 per year.

(Foreign postage, 50 cents.) Price of cloth-bound volumes, $3.50 each.

A complete index to Vols. I-XVI of the Bulletin has been issued. Price 50 cents, bound in cloth.


The Johns Hopkins Hospital Bulletins are issued monthly. They are printed by the LORD BALTIMORE PRESS, Baltimore. Subscriptions, $3.00 a year (foreign postage, 50 cents), may be addressed to the publishers, THE JOHNS HOPKINS PRESS, BALTIMORE; single copies will be sent by mail for fifty cents each. Single copies may also be procured from the BALTIMORE NEWS CO., Baltimore.